

First you throw a red ball straight up from the edge of a cliff, and it lands on the ground below the cliff.

Then you throw a green ball at the same speed, but straight down from the edge of the cliff.

Compared to the speed of the red ball when it hits the ground, the speed of the green ball when it hits the ground is:

1. larger
2. the same
3. smaller